A few questions inspired by our Sunday service designed to start conversations with those you're in community with, help you make connections to your everyday life, and push you to consider how you can get closer to God this week.

1. What's one thing that God's called you to in your life, but you've been afraid to show up for it?
2. One of the things we often dodge is genuine community with other people. Who around you can help you process your calling and hold you accountable as you pursue it?
3. Which of these rebuttals are you most guilty of giving God and why: Who me? Why now? What if? Can it wait?
4. The "HOT NOW" sign has been flicked on in your life. God said, "go." What's your next step?
