A few questions inspired by our Sunday service designed to start conversations with those you're in community with, help you make connections to your everyday life, and push you to consider how you can get closer to God this week.

1. We have to see ourselves as free. What are some examples of not living as if we're free? What's your "weight"?
2. We have to see ourselves as new creations - birds that can fly. If the first step to realizing your future is to see it, picture this: how could this year be different for you?
3. We have to invite others to fly with us - to come and see. Who can you encourage to journey with you? What does it mean to you to "spur each other on"?
